NIE/ELE/Q0801: Installation and Repair Assistant (Consumer Electronics)

Brief Job Description

This qualification delves into various aspects of electronic appliances and devices, covering topics such as LCD-LED TV and Monitor technology, Cable TV and DTH Services, CCTV Camera and Home Theatre System installation, Washing Machine operation and maintenance, and the utilization of Induction Stove and Microwave Oven. Participants will gain practical insights into the functionality, servicing, and troubleshooting of these electronic devices, enhancing their proficiency in managing and maintaining a range of household and entertainment appliances. The course provides a well-rounded understanding of contemporary electronic technologies.

Personal Attributes

Upon completion of this comprehensive course, candidates exhibit a diverse skill set contributing to their professional competence. They develop technical proficiency through hands-on experience with LCD-LED TVs, monitors, cable TV, DTH services, CCTV cameras, home theatre systems, washing machines, induction stoves, and microwave ovens. Analytical skills are honed for precise issue diagnosis, while attention to detail becomes ingrained in installation and maintenance tasks. Problem-solving abilities adapt to dynamic challenges, and effective communication skills are cultivated. A customer service orientation emphasizes quality support, safety awareness ensures secure practices, and adaptability readies candidates for evolving technologies. Teamwork and efficient time management skills further solidify their versatility in electronic appliance servicing.
